Symphonies created from pure water and the skills of masters

The secrets behind this beautiful art, with its myriad of expressions, lie in the use of pure water and the superior skills of traditional artisans.

Even if all other materials are the same, if the quality of the water is only marginally slightly, you are unable to produce the same wash.

Each area produces washes with different qualities, impossible to find in any other varieties.

Each region has its own methods and techniques that have been passed down from generation to generation, with each area having their own tradition. It is the pure water, rare in the rest of the world, that is the secret of the tradition that produces the beautiful art with your heart.

A reality of our times is that it is becoming difficult to find to continue the traditional methods for making that some areas are losing their individual
